Tired and Languid Women. How many women there are of whom those words are true: "They feel lan-guid and tired, hardly able to bear their weight on their feet, the bloom all cone from their cheeks, irratable and cross without meaning to he, nerves all upact, worried with the children, fretted over little things, burden to themselves, and yet with no acute disease," What a pity it is. But a few bottles of Parker's Toric will drive all this away, and relieve the troubles peculiar to their sex.
